EPS Grants to Young Physicists for the Bucharest Conference

Two years ago, the Council of the European Physical Society set up a Conference Fund to be used as a solidarity Fund. All Europhysics Conferences, held since September 1974, are paying a capitation fee into the Conference Fund for each of their participants. The Conference Fund will be used for subsidies to young physicists to participate in conferences, to grant small loans to help in starting conferences when no other possibilities are available, and to pay for unexpected losses completely outside the control of the organizers.

It has been decided that the first use of the Conference Fund would be the allocation of grants to young physicists to attend the Third EPS General Conference on Energy and Physics, in Bucharest, next September. An announcement has been published in Europhysics News and applications have been received from physicists from many European countries. The Conference Committee scrutinized these applications; the criteria for selection have been the age, the interests, the previous work, the present position of the candidate and the unavailability of other sources of financing. It was decided to retain mostly candidates from smaller countries as other possibilities on a national basis existed in the larger countries. Twenty grants have been allocated by EPS to young physicists coming from Austria, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, Israel, Italy, Spain, Sweden, The Netherlands and Yugoslavia.

The Executive Committee is very happy that the Conference Fund has thus proved to be useful in helping young physicists to participate in a major international conference.

Nominations should be sent to the Conference Office before 10 July 1975; they should be signed by three EGAS-members and be accompanied by a statement of consent of the nominee.
